Personal data
FICPI-UK processes personal information on its members for the purpose of maintaining the register of members, administering bookings and invoicing members in respect of annual subscriptions and other payments for conferences and seminars, dinner meetings and other events and distributing the FICPI-UK newsletter and other communications. FICPI-UK also supplies such information to FICPI for inclusion in the membership list that is distributed in printed form to all members of FICPI or its national sections and associations and is available online on FICPI's website and for the distribution of FICPI's newsletter and other communications and invitations to meetings. Neither FICPI nor FICPI-UK makes such data available to any third parties other than by virtue of any of the above-mentioned uses. However, use of personal information of members of FICPI-UK by FICPI may entail such information being transferred to countries outside the EEA.

If you would prefer FICPI-UK not to transfer your personal information to FICPI then please tick here. (By ticking this box you understand that your name will not appear in FICPI's membership list or online at FICPI's website). ☐
